INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Problem

English is one of the prime subjects which is taught at junior high school. In Curriculum 2006, KTSP (Kurikulum Tingkat Satuan Pendidikan) there are some types of text that will be learned by the students. They are descriptive, recount, narrative, and procedure. Each of the text has certain generic structures, social function, and lexicogrammatical feature. Narrative will be taught at second semester of second grade.

Narrative text has language features, such as: use nouns, pronouns, noun phrases, time connectives and conjunctions, prepositions, adverbs and adverbial phrases, material processes (action verbs), and verbal processes. In narrative text there are several kinds of prepositions. They are preposition of position, preposition of direction and preposition of time. Preposition is a word which is placed in front of noun or pronoun to show relationship of position, direction, and time.

In MAN Pasir Pengaraian their students do not master to use the prepositions such as preposition which is show position. They also have difficultied to differenciate the function of the preposition itself. The students have many mistakes in placing preposition of position in narrative text.

Based on the problems above, the researcher was interested in conducteding a reseach on senior high school level. Preposition had been taught in senior high school detailly. Based on the English teacher's teaching learning process explanation that in MAN Pasir Pengaraian preposition was taught for three times of classmeeting. The teacher taught preposition detailly, but some students still have mistakes in using preposition. Preposition is taught in narrative topic. Preposition is a word which is used to connect between noun one and another noun or relationship another word in the sentence.

Based on the problem above, the researcher was interested in "Analysis of Preposition of Position in Student's Narrative Text at Second Grade Students of MAN Pasir Pengaraian".

B. Purpose of the Reseach

Purpose of this reseach is to know the skill of the second grade students of MAN Pasir Pengaraian in using preposition of position in narrative text.

C. Review of Related Theories

a. Defenition of Narrative Text

Narrative text is the text that tells about the imaginary story, there are many types of narrative text like romance, mystery, horror and comedy. A narrative is basically used for entertainment or education purposes. Narrative text is a text to amuse, entertain and deal with actual or vicarious experience in different ways.

According to Nursahid and Mutaqin (2005: 117) narrative text is the kind of text that relates the story of acts or events. Narrative text includes occurrences in time and tells what happened according to natural time sequence. Types of narrative text includes short stories, novels, and news stories, as well as a large part of our everyday social interchange in the form of letters and conversations.

b. General Structure of Narrative Text

In narrative text it can be found the general structure. They were divided into three parts: Orientation, complication, and resolution. Firstly, orientation (introducing the characters of the story). Secondly, complication (series of events in which the main character attempts to solve the problem). Thirdly, resolution (the ending of the story containing the solution).

The text organization of narrative in Look A head text book for second grade student of senior high school written by Sudarwati and Grace (2007: 154) includes: orientation (sets the scene: where and when the story happened, introduces the participants of the story: who and what is involved in the story). Complication (tell the beginning of the problem which leads to the crisis (climax) of the main participants). Resolution (the problem (the crisis) is resolved, either in a happy ending or in a sad (tragic) ending). Re-orientation (this is a closing remark to the story and it is optional. It consists of a moral lesson, advice or teaching from the writer).

c. Definition of Preposition

Preposition is the one of kind language features of narrative text. Preposition is the word which connect between one noun with another noun. Preposition divide three, they are preposition of position, direction, and time. Prepositions are always followed by nouns or pronouns.

Werner and Spaventa (2002: 319) say that in formal English, the preposition begins the adjective clause. In informal English, the preposition usually follows the verb in the adjective clause.

d. Kind of Preposition

The preposition can be divide into three kind. They are preposition of position, preposition of direction, preposition of time, like the following explanation below:

a. Prepositions of Position.

Preposition of Position is preposition which to point out place or position, where the something take place. Preposition of position also to describe position of nouns or pronouns.

According to Leech and Svartvik (1973:82) in Khurriyati (2013: 32) that the place of prepositions are prepositions that are used to described the place or position of all types of nouns. It is common for the preposition to be placed before the noun.

b. Preposition of Direction.

Preposition of direction is the preposition which to indicate aim of something. According to Emmaryana (2010) preposition of direction are: across, at, by way of, down, into, out of, to through, toward, up upon.

Purnomo (2011: 62) says that preposition of direction are: to (ke) & from (dari), toward (menuju), away from (jauh dari), into (kedalam), out of (keluar dari), up (keatas) & down (kebawah), around (keliling), through (melalui).

Based of the theories above, there are 10 kinds of preposition of direction. They are across, at, to & from, toward, away from, into, out of, up & down, around, through.

c. Preposition of Time.

Preposition of time is the preposition to show when the something happened. According to Emmaryana (2010) preposition of time: about, after, around, at, before, by, during, from and to, from and until, in.

Purnomo (2011: 65) says that preposition of time are: on (di/ pada), in (di/ pada), at (di/ pada), for (selama), during (selama), and while (ketika), since (sejak), from and to (dari dan sampai) and till/ until (sampai/ hingga).

However, based on the theories above, there are 13 kinds preposition of time. There are: about, after, around, at, before, by, during, from and to, from and until, in, since, for, and while.

METHOD OF THE RESEARCH

A. Research Design

The research was a kind of descriptive qualitative research. Arikunto (2010) says that descriptive research is the research have purpose to accurate the situation, condition, and other which is said, the result it is explained in report of the research. As Creswell (2003) in Sukma (2010) says that qualitative research takes place in the natural setting of the language usage; enable the researcher to make interpretation of the data. Besides, it also involves the non-numerical data like observation, interview, and other more source of information (Holliday, 2002; Gay, 2000 in Sukma, 2010). It had three variable.

B. Technique of Collecting the Data

In collecting the data, researcher used the test. The techniques of data collection were as followed:

1. The researcher asked permission to the teacher to have time for speaking in front of the class to give instruction about what the students did.
2. The researcher chose the students that be sample in this research.

3. The researcher asked the students to answer the question that were given researcher to the students.
4. The paper were collected by the researcher.
5. The researcher read the data and made a list of them and then classified the preposition based on the process.
6. The researcher checked the answer of students and then gave score to their participant.

According to Purwanto (1984 : 82) in Permai (2007), The score of the students can be percent by using arithmatich as follow :

90 % - 100 %	= Excellent
80 % - 89 %	= Good
65 % - 79 %	= Fairly good
55 % - 64 %	= Fair
< 55%	= Poor

C. Technique of Analyzing the Data

In order to know each student score the researcher used the following formula:

$$M = \frac{X}{N} \times 100 \text{ (Harahap, 1998:52) in Permai (2007)}$$

Notation:

M	= Each student score
X	= Total of correct answer
N	= Total of items
100	= Constant number

To change the students' score into percentage the formula was:

$$p = \frac{f}{N} 100 \% \text{ (Sudijono, 2009: 43)}$$

Notation:

p = Frequency is founding the percentage.

f = Number of cases.

N = Number of percentage.
