AMERICAN VALUES MANIFESTATION
PORTRAYED BY ATOM IN REAL STEEL THE MOVIE

THESIS

BY:
SELVY DARMIANTI
NIM 0911110259

STUDY PROGRAM OF ENGLISH
DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGES AND LITERATURES
FACULTY OF CULTURAL STUDIES
UNIVERSITAS BRAWIJAYA
2015
ABSTRACT

Darmianti, Selvy., 2014. American Values Manifestation Portrayed by Atom in Real Steel The Movie. Study Program of English, Department of Languages and Literatures, Faculty of Cultural Studies, Universitas Brawijaya. Supervisor: Sri Herminingrum; Co-supervisor: Melania Shinta Harendika

Keywords: American Values, Popular Culture, Real Steel, Robot Character

Movie is one of popular cultures that reflect the condition of society. It could be in the forms of phenomena, idea, or culture. This condition also happens in American’s movies, one of them is Real Steel. Unlike other movies representing American values depicted by human character, this movie is depicted by the non-human character, i.e. robot.

Sociological approach is used in this study since Real Steel the movie describes a lot of American social phenomena. Scene and subtitle will be categorized and analyzed using relevant American values theory.

The result reveals that four out of six American values as proposed by Datesman, et al. are found in this study, they are equality of opportunity, and competition, material wealth and hard-work. Whereas two of them, individual freedom and self-reliance are not found. Furthermore, from Atom’s journey it shows that Americans respect the equality of opportunity; assume that competition is an obligation, benchmark wealth as a status and respect hardworking in the journey of success.

In the future, boxing, as one of roughest sports, are performed by robots, because robots are more resistant to take blows rather than humans. So, the next researchers can use humanism theory to analyzed Real Steel the movie.
REFERENCES

The American Dream then and now. (2007). Ernst Klett Verlag GmbH, Stuttgart, p.02-03