Abstract:
From the description on this scientific writing, the writer can take the conclusion that creating a homepage is not too difficult, even for beginners because convenience facilities provided by Macromedia Dreamweaver 3.0 and Dreamweaver software support from the tutorial itself.
Must be considered in making a web site is in the provision of images, graphics, text, and others. Giving a lot of pictures on the web was going to make the website look more attractive, but for Internet users that have a low-class computers will require substantial memory and this will slow down a website link.
