Education is essential for human life, but not everyone can feel a decent education because of the increasing cost of education. For a little overcome this, the government allocated funds to provide scholarships, which often occur in the process of disbursement delays due to a delay in processing the data. With advances in computer technology, as now, we are facilitated with a variety of applications that can help data-processing activities. Therefore, the writer tries to create an application that can speed up data processing.
