ABSTRACT

The purpose of the research was to provide empirical evidence of bank's Performance and non-bank's performance variables that affected Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise's (MSMe) loan. Bank's Performance variables that used in this research are Third Party Fund, Capital Adequacy Ratio, Non Performing Loan, Return on Assets. In the other hand, Non-Bank's Performance variable that used is Bank Indonesia Rate. Research population was all commercial banks which operated in Indonesia during January 2011-May 2013. Multiple regression was used for instrument analysis. The result of research showed that Third Party Fund and Return on Assets represented significant determination of MSMe Loan. In other hand, Capital Adequacy Ratio, Non Performing Loan and BI Rate didn't have any significant determination of MSMe Loan. The result means that MSMe Loan was affected by ability of bank to collect Third Party Fund and ability to create a profit.
